THE LOST VOICE. (Carolyn Wells.)

Seated one day: on a jury,
I was weary and out of sorts,
And my thoughts were wands;
Idly
Away from crimes and courts.

I know not what they were pleading.
Or who was cross-questioned then.
Int I heard one witness talking.
With the voice of an honest man

It linked all perploxed opinions
Into one verdict true;
And stopped with a sudden silence
As soon as the speech was through

I have sought, but I seek it vainly,
That honest voice, so queer,
That came from the lips of the witness
And entered my awestruck car.

Il may be, some time 'ar other, I shall hear that voice again. Or it may be that I was dreaming When I heard that honest man.

F. M. CLAIRE.
To the Editor of The Intalligence:
Mr. Editor,—In The Intelligence of the §th inst. there appeared a fetter over the signature of Mr. W. M.
Clarke, commenting upon the settion and policy of the Board of Education in permitting children living butalde
the city limits to attend our schools.
It is evident, from the statements

the city limits to attend our schools. It is widen, from the statements made therein, that Mr. Clarke is not la possession of all the facts. Had he known the facts, Mr. Editor, which I now enclose for the information of yourself and year readers. If you think H wall to publish them, he might not have rushed see the might not now you have you had so eagerly into print as the champion of the taxpayers in this connection.

Permit me to add that, if the Chairman of the Water Committee would take the trouble to explain the principle upon which "outsiders" the principle upon which could-der, he could. I doubt not give satisfactory reasons in justification of the policy of the Council in that regard.

Your obedient servant.

When this end lining is removed, the Penn Esther will burn a stick of wood 24 inches long. The advantages of this are obvious in country sections where wood is extensively used for fuel.

A Story of Blains.

James G. Blaine made his first appearance on the stump in the canvass in Maine in 1556. He went to Farmington to hear Senator William Pitt Fessenden speak and with no intention to speak himself. But Mr. Fessenden did not arrive on time, and some did not arrive on time, and some den did not arrive on time, and some of his Augusta friends put Blaine forward to take the platform. He likened his situation to that of a farmer who had a borne for which he asked $500. A horse trader offered him $75 for the animal. "It's an awful drop," said the farmer, "but I'll take it." The story took and so did the speech that followed.
